Judge - Randy Meador

- > There is no pre-entry or pre-judging of images.
- > Texas western artist Randy Meador says he owes his art career to former British Prime Minister Winston Churchill. "While reading a Churchill biography in 1991, I stopped and meditated on his words, 'When I paint, nothing else exists.' I wanted desperately to go there... regularly."

The former marketer and speaker began painting that day.

Meador graduated from the University of Oklahoma in 1985 with a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree, but initially chose a different career course in a variety of businesses.

"I pestered Buck Taylor (watercolor artist) at a Fort Worth Stock Show in 1992 and asked him who were the best watercolor artists, then proceeded to study all the works of Winslow Homer, John Singer Sargent, Paul Cezanne, and others. They were my early teachers. I figured, 'why not learn from some of the greats?'

Afterward, I just taught myself by making notes of everything that did and did not work. In the beginning, I think I owned every watercolor technique book ever written, and later it was humbling to find myself competing with many of those authors in juried exhibitions."
